

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS - 2023 Edition

Master of living tradition Program

Guidelines

Presentation of the program

The National Master of living tradition program recognizes outstanding artists and craftspeople who master a practice or technique passed down from generation to generation. It also aims to highlight these Masters on the territory of Quebec through transmission and dissemination actions, spread over a minimum of one year. Three (3) to five (5) Master of living tradition will be selected during the third call for nominations.

This prestigious program, supported by the Ministry of Culture and Communications, represents the implementation in Quebec of the UNESCO Living Human Treasures system already in place in several countries. It will contribute to the development of intangible cultural heritage (also called living heritage). It is managed by the Conseil québécois du patrimoine vivant (CQPV).

Definition of Master of living tradition

Master of living tradition are people who possess at a high level the knowledge and skills needed to interpret or recreate specific elements of intangible cultural heritage. (UNESCO)

Master of living tradition are bearers of tradition and mediators of living heritage as defined in the Charter of Competencies of the Living Heritage mediators (CQRHC 2011). They are experienced pedagogues, virtuosos or experts in the handling of ancient techniques, and are recognized by their peers. They are both role models in their community and ambassadors for the general public. Their action aims at sustainable development and contributes to education on the cultural demand. (CQPV)

Summary rules and general operation of the program

The title of Master of Living Traditions is awarded to one person for an unlimited period, except in the event of serious breaches of the letter of acceptance to be signed by the Master.

A $ 5 000 bursary is awarded to successful applicants, as recognition of their status. Masters then receive a fee based on the work performed in the program, with the exception of interviews or certain initiatives to document their work. Transport and subsistence costs are the responsibility of the CQPV.

For each of the chosen Masters, an action plan is put in place, which presents the objectives, the description of the projects and a schedule. Upstream, the Master is met in order to evaluate his vision of his practice, his needs, his ideas, his strengths and his challenges, etc. Throughout the process successful applicants are supported by the CQPV Project manager.

Briefly, the activities that the selected candidates will be able to provide are : teaching (master class, initial and professional training, internships, mentoring), presentation activities (shows, exhibitions, conferences, demonstrations, animations, media interviews). They will also collaborate on documentation initiatives (films, audio recordings, articles, inventory, etc.). Depending on the financial partners involved, and selected candidates, an artistic creation and production component could complement the initiative. The Masters could thus realize new works. All of these activities will be carried out in collaboration with a wide range of partners throughout Quebec.

The program of activities of each selected candidate will be modulated according to the available budgets, the discipline specific to each and the demand on the Quebec territory and abroad.

At the end of the period provided for in the action plan, an evaluation of the program is carried out in order to improve the subsequent experiences.

As an indication and not exhaustive, the disciplines that can be envisaged within the framework of this program are for example:

- Oral traditions (storytelling, legends, Inuit throat singing, etc.)
- Performing arts (diatonic accordion, traditional violin, stepdancing, dance, call, etc.)
- Knowledge and practices concerning nature and the universe (herbalism, traditional medicines, indigenous knowledge, hunting, fishing, etc.)
- Knowledge and know-how related to traditional crafts (textile art, arrow sash, forge, bark canoe, snowshoes, etc.)

Objectives of the program

The "label" Master of living tradition thus allows a prestige enhancement for artists and craftsmen. In addition to this official designation of Master of living tradition, this program promotes atypical collaborations between Masters and various cultural venues or spaces, presenting spaces, libraries, media companies, educational institutions, health institutions and more. The fundamental objective remains to increase the visibility and the presentation of living heritage and its various cultural elements.

The specific objectives related to this program are:

- Recognize masters of exemplary oral tradition;
- Increase the dissemination and influence of the oral tradition culture by promoting a professional, dynamic, prestigious and innovative image of the disciplines concerned;

- Allow a training offer for several under-represented disciplines in the educational spectrum in Quebec;
- Promote citizens' access to their own cultural heritage in various regions of Quebec;
- Produce and disseminate documentation on particular practices very well mastered;
- Provide interesting content to the media to increase the visibility of the sector of intervention.
- Disseminate the practices of the successful candidates internationally.

Selection criteria and skills of the candidate

Candidates will be selected based on the following criteria :

- Excellence in the application of traditional knowledge and skills ;
- Ability to transmit knowledge and skills (teaching skills) ;
- The candidate's ability to publicly present their knowledge and expertise in various dissemination contexts ;
- The commitment of the individual and his / her availability to provide services over the period foreseen by the program ;
- The relative scarcity of educational offerings across Quebec and the world of the cultural element concerned ;
- The high degree of specificity related to the territory of Québec or the relevance of active safeguarding of the cultural element concerned ;
- The availability of the candidate to document his practice;
- The ability and availability of the candidate to travel abroad to present their practice (optional).

The program targets practices passed down from generation to generation that meet the definition of "intangible heritage" in the Quebec Cultural Heritage Act: "know-how, knowledge, expressions, practices and representations transmitted from generation in perpetuity and recreated permanently, in conjunction, where appropriate, with the objects and cultural spaces associated with them, which a community or group recognizes as part of its cultural heritage and whose knowledge, preservation, transmission or enhancement is of public interest ". The program is for living heritage mediators as defined in the Living Heritage Mediator's Charter (CQRHC 2011).

Recognition as a Master of living tradition can be attributed exclusively to an individual. Businesses, NPOs and other organizations or corporations are not eligible. Posthumous nominations or recognitions will not be considered either.

The candidate must be over 18 years of age, be a Canadian citizen or permanent resident and reside in the province of Quebec.

First Nations and Inuit applicants are encouraged to apply.
